Call for Lightning Talk Presentations at the 2018 Nebraska Forum on Digital Humanities

The Center for Digital Research in the Humanities (CDRH) invites you to participate in Shaping the Future: the Sixth Annual Nebraska Forum on Digital Humanities, to be held at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln on April 12-13, 2018. The Nebraska Forum on Digital Humanities is an annual, thematic exploration of issues in digital humanities. This year's event will showcase the impact of digital humanities education on students' approaches to teaching, research, technology, communication, and public service, as well as on the futures they imagine for these areas. We encourage students, undergraduate through doctoral, who are involved in digital humanities to propose lightning talks that take up some aspect of the general theme: Shaping the Future.

We seek a wide range of presentations relating to digital humanities from a variety of students in our region. Students who are interested in sharing their work with regional colleagues are invited to submit proposals for 3-5 minute presentations. Proposals should include your presentation title and a short abstract (200-250 words). Submissions are due 11:59 p.m. Central Standard Time on February 9, 2018, and should be directed to the forum planning committee at cdrh@unl.edu with “Forum Proposal” in the subject. Proposals will be evaluated based on relevance, creativity, ingenuity, and applicability for participants after the conference. Presenters will be notified of acceptance via email by February 23, 2018.

The lightning talks will be held Friday, April 13 from 10:45-12:30. Presenters are invited to stay for the lunch immediately following in order to continue the conversation, and are strongly encouraged to attend other forum events as well. Visit the CDRH website http://cdrh.unl.edu/neforum for more information about the 2018 forum, including a complete schedule of events.

We look forward to showcasing new and emerging work from students across the region, and strengthening the DH community in Nebraska and beyond.
